Collaboration and Co-Teaching: Creating Inclusive Classrooms to Support All Learners

Presented by Diana Scarselletta Straut

Thursday, Oct. 20
4pm-5pm

Interested in learning how to maximize the impact of the adults in your classroom? This session takes you through the what, why, and how of collaboration and co-teaching. Learn some simple, efficient, and effective ways to organize yourself and your co-teacher, your paraeducators, or any other adults in your classroom to create FUN and inclusive environments. Designed for K-12 teachers who are interested in getting started with co-teaching or anyone looking to improve their collaborative/co-teaching practices.

Using Accountable Talk to Increase Learning and Engagement

Presented by Christopher Karle

Tuesday, Nov. 8
4pm-5pm

We all know that discussion plays an important role in education, but we often do not understand how important it is, or the best way to structure the conversation in the classroom. This session will explore how using accountable talk can increase student engagement, retention, and the use of academic and content language. Participants will examine strategies to go beyond surface-level engagement to increase higher-order thinking (HOT) and student collaboration. Finally, participants will examine how accountable talk can be used as formative and summative assessments.
